DATING HORROR STORIES

From ghosting to catfishing, stars reveal that finding love isn't easy

NEXT STOP: THE FRIEND ZONE

CHELSEA HANDLER

It should go without saying: Married men need not apply! The comedian, 47, who has used both Tinder and Raya, reveals that while she was texting with a man she met on an app, he casually mentioned he had a wife and kids. She double-checked his profile, and "he'd said, 'Just here for friends.' And I thought, 'Who's on a dating app to meet friends?'"

JENNY SLATE

She's happily married now, but the actress, 40, spent some time in the romantic trenches, including one blind date who showed up with "a full authentic knight's costume on, including a floor-length tabard, which I called a tunic and then he corrected me," she recalls. During the date, "his chain mail was getting caught on stuff! I was mortified, and also just mad."

HER RED FLAGS

DREW BARRYMORE

"I can't believe how much ghosting hurts," says the 47-year-old, who has been open about her dating misadventures, including one prospective suitor who waxed nostalgic about his childhood living above a cobbler's shop. "I said, 'What an interesting story,'" she recalls, "and he goes, 'Oh, I made it up.' And I just went, 'Block!'"

PATRICIA ARQUETTE

Talk about dodging a bullet! Years ago, the actress, 54, was set up on a date by mutual friends with a pro skateboarder. "We made out, but something about how he kissed me freaked me out. I gave him a fake number," she reveals, adding that the guy, Mark Rogowski, later went to prison for murdering his ex's friend!

SAM SMITH

"I joined this dating site called Hinge in the U.K., and they chucked me off of it after one night because they thought I was a catfish pretending to be me," the singer, 30, shares, adding that the same thing happened at Tinder because their account wasn't verified. Time for Raya?

MANCANDYOFTHEWEEK

JOE BRADLEY

We'd love to get a warm welcome from the 26-year-old Southern Hospitality star!

FRAN DRESCHER

The actress, 65, ends a date within minutes if the guy shows "any kind of prejudice" or has clearly lied in his online profile. And even if they do get around to ordering dinner, "I've been on dates where we got into a fight about how we would raise this imaginary kid that we were never gonna have!"

JESSIE & ERIC'S
NASHVILLE STUNNER

Maybe they should make a reality show about selling their dream home? Former Eric & Jessie stars Jessie James Decker and husband Eric Decker have listed their gorgeous Nashville mansion. The couple stand to make a huge profit, having bought the home – which rests on a whopping three acres – in 2011 for just over $4 million. It's perfect for families, too – there's a geothermal pool and a jungle gym in the yard, and a playroom inside features tumbling mats and a climbing wall!

The living room is almost as big as a football field!

Did the country pop star entertain guests at her grand piano?

Jessie's closet must be full of items from her Kittenish apparel line.

WHAT (REALLY) WORKS

Tom Sandoval & Tom Schwartz Set the Record Straight!

NAVIGATING VALENTINE'S DAY

They say it's the thought that counts, but if there's one thing these two die-hard romantics—Tom Sandoval and Tom Schwartz, Vanderpump Rules—have learned after a lifetime in the service industry is that if you really don't want to screw up that grand romantic gesture, maybe the best bet is to opt for a mocktail. KYLIE: THE LION QUEEN

Kylie Jenner caused an uproar with her wild look at the Schiaparelli Haute Couture show on Jan. 23: a black velvet gown topped with a giant, lifelike lion head! While the reality star, 25, made sure to point out on Instagram that the lion head was "faux" and "manmade," her critics still pounced, calling the outfit "wrong wrong wrong" and "a scary sight." But PETA had no problem with it. Its president, Ingrid Newkirk, hails the design as "fabulously innovative. The look celebrates the beauty of wild animals and may be a statement against trophy hunting, in which lions and wolves are torn apart to satisfy human egotism."

THORNY SITUATION!

'The Boring Bachelor' STRIKES BACK

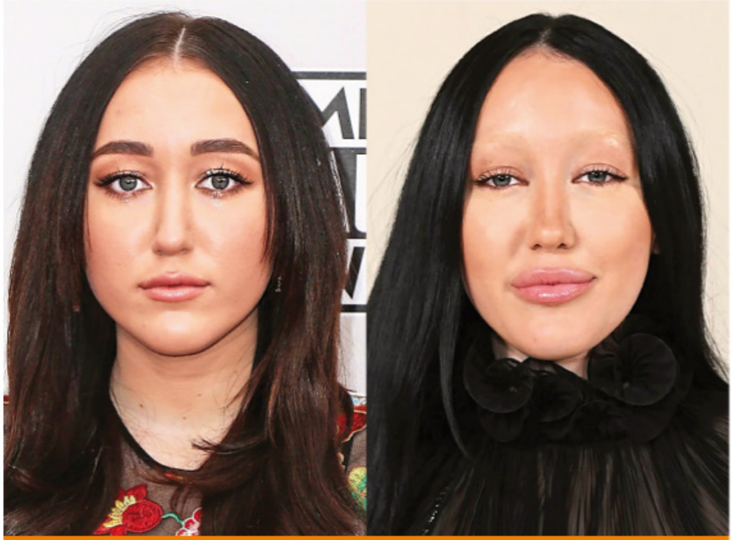
The bloom is off the rose already! Bachelor fans have dubbed Zach Shallcross — the 26-year-old looking for true love on Season 27 — "The Boring Bachelor." Some are even calling for ABC to pull the plug on the show. "Apparently, ABC is also worried," a source tells In Touch. "They're concerned that they may have played it safe by picking a guy who wasn't even that popular with Bachelor fans. [Zach previously appeared on Rachel Recchia and Gabby Windey's season.] The network is definitely keeping their eyes on the ratings. That's all they really care about." One online commenter calls Zach "meh at best," while another slams, "He has nothing interesting to say." Zach's response? Be patient. "Fans are going to be pleasantly surprised [by the drama ahead]," teases the account executive. "The reality is, if you are someone that likes the show because you want people to find true love — [and it's] not about acting, not about this and that — then I think fans are going to love it. If you're into the unnecessary drama and ridiculous stuff...then, yeah, maybe I'm not the guy for you."

GUESS WHO?!

This TV personality cheated on her husband recently and made headlines, but little does everyone know that her husband also strayed. And his fling – which is still going strong – is about to make even bigger headlines when the world finds out who his new girlfriend is!



WHAT HAPPENED TO NOAH CYRUS' FACE?

Whoa! Noah Cyrus, the 23-year-old younger sister of Miley Cyrus, looked almost unrecognizable when she arrived at the Alexandre Vauthier fashion show in Paris on Jan 24. "It appears that Noah has had injections of filler into her cheeks and lips to plump them up," says Anthony Youn, M.D., America's Holistic Plastic Surgeon, who has not treated the singer. "She may also have had an upper eyelid lift, causing [the area around] her eyes to look more open. She looks very different!" According to a source, "Noah, like Miley, likes to keep everyone on their toes. She experiments with new looks all the time. This one just happens to be very dramatic."

BRITNEY'S 911 EMERGENCY

Fans are worried about Britney Spears, so much so that on Jan. 20 some of them asked the Ventura County Sheriff's Office to perform a wellness check on the pop star, 41, after she deactivated her Instagram account without warning. "We did get calls into our dispatch, and essentially, I can confirm that we don't believe Britney Spears is in any kind of harm or any kind of danger," a police spokesperson said. Britney, who's been holed up at home for months, was not happy when the cops came knocking on her door. "I love and adore my fans, but this time things went a little too far and my privacy was invaded," she tweeted. "During this time in my life, I truly hope the public and my fans who I care so much about can respect my privacy moving forward."

Brooke BREAKS HER SILENCE

For the first time ever, the former child star is speaking about being raped in her 20s by an unnamed man

For decades, Brooke Shields has been open about the challenges she's faced. She's talked about public perception around being the self-described "most famous virgin in the world" until she slept with a college classmate, actor Dean Cain, at 22. She's opened up about the painful end of her marriage to first husband Andre Agassi and the tennis star's crystal meth addiction. And in 2006, in her book Down Came the Rain, she almost single-handedly changed public awareness of a common but, at the time, rarely talked-about mental health issue when she detailed her postpartum depression battle, famously standing up to criticism from movie star Tom Cruise after he publicly branded her "irresponsible" for taking antidepressants.

Now she's sharing her most traumatizing secret of all. Nearly 45 years after Brooke, 57, became a household name as a child star, she's speaking out for the first time about being the victim of a horrific sexual assault. She's breaking her silence about the life-altering event in the new two-part documentary Pretty Baby: Brooke Shields, which debuted at the Sundance

A TIME TO HEAL
Brooke says, "It's taken me a long time" to be able to talk about being sexually assaulted.

ORIGINAL TWO-PART DOCUMENTARY COMING TO hulu

HER CALVINS!

Film Festival on Jan. 20 and will air on Hulu at a later date. In a new interview about the project, Brooke explains that she's finally confessing what happened "as a woman, as a mother, as someone who has lived with the guilt of this for so long and had continuously tried to learn how to process it. I wanted to share this story with other men and women who might possibly be struggling or trying to survive this, hoping that at least if I share the incident and the story, then it helps others to work through whatever they need to work through." Adds a source: "It took years for Brooke to come to terms with the devastating incident, but she won't allow it to define her."

SHOCKING ATTACK

Brooke, who was in her 20s at the time, thought she'd be safe. Instead, she was brutalized. She'd recently graduated from Princeton University and was experiencing a career slowdown following the wild success of her youth (she'd modeled for Calvin Klein and acted in movies such as Pretty Baby, Endless Love and The Blue Lagoon) when she met a Hollywood professional for dinner to discuss work. "He said, 'Come back to the hotel and I'll call a cab,'" Brooke explains in the new documentary directed by Lana Wilson, who also made the Taylor Swift doc, Miss Americana. "And I go up to the hotel room, and he disappears for a while." It was all a lie, a trap. He soon reappeared — naked. "And he's right on me. Just like, was wrestling."

Scared of what he might do to her, Brooke didn't run away. "I was afraid I'd get choked out or something. So I didn't fight that much. I didn't. I just absolutely froze," she says. "I thought one 'no' should've been enough, and I just thought, 'Stay alive and get out,' and I just shut it out." When the assault was over, Brooke quietly left and ultimately buried what had happened. "I went down in the elevator, and I got my own cab," she says. "I just cried all the way to my friend's apartment."

COMING TO TERMS

She was in denial for years. She lied to herself about what happened. A security specialist she was working with, Gavin de Becker, told her, "That's rape," Brooke recalls. "I said, 'I'm not willing to believe that.'" At first, she even felt she was in some way responsible. "I believed somehow I put out a message.... I drank wine at dinner. I went up to the room. I just was so trusting." She finally wrote her attacker a letter telling him he'd destroyed a "huge trust," but she was dismissed.

Yet she eventually found the strength to move on. "I just threw my hands up and said, 'You know what, I refuse to be a victim, because this is something that happens no matter who you are and no matter what you think you're prepared for or not,'" she explains. "I wanted to erase the whole thing from my mind and body and just keep on the path I was on."

Brooke wasn't sure she would ever publicly reveal the rape. "I did not know if or when, or if at all, I was ever going to bring this up. It has taken me many years of therapy to even be able to talk about it," she says. "I definitely have worked very hard through it, and I've learned to process it."

LIVING IN GRATITUDE

In the documentary, Brooke was far less hesitant to discuss the ways she was sexualized as a child star in Hollywood — including how, at just 11, she appeared nude and kissed a then 29-year-old Keith Carradine in Pretty Baby, which told the story of a New Orleans prostitute's 12-year-old daughter whose virginity is auctioned off. (Her career at the time was being guided by her late mother, Teri.) Brooke says she was "shocked" when her own daughters, Rowan, 19, and Grier, 16, with screenwriter-producer husband Chris Henchy, 58, spoke to her on camera in the doc about her experiences as an exploited child actress, calling it "really touching" to hear their perspective.

The Suddenly Susan actress is grateful her story is being told and now wants to continue to move forward. "I'm so proud of looking at my body of work and saying, 'I accomplished that, and I kept learning, and I kept growing.' I'm still here," she says. Fame could have destroyed her — but didn't. "I'm proud of who I am and how I've evolved." ■

THE MEN IN HER LIFE

SCOTT BAIO

Her dates with Happy Days teen heartthrob Scott Baio, 62, in the late '70s were just for show, Brooke admitted in her memoir There Was a Little Girl.

JOHN TRAVOLTA

In 1981, Brooke was 16 when her manager mom set her up on some platonic but publicity-generating dates with John, then 27, because both had movies coming out that year.

JFK JR.

The late JFK Jr. – another "huge crush" – took high schooler Brooke out a few times after serving as her campus tour guide at Brown University in the early '80s.

DEAN CAIN

The future Lois & Clark actor, 56, was a football player at Princeton when he dated Brooke, who made him "wait and wait" to take her virginity at 22.

GEORGE MICHAEL

She had a few chaste dates with crush George, who came out as gay years later in the '80s. "It was definitely one-sided," Brooke's admitted of the late singer.

MICHAEL JACKSON

Though the late singer claimed he and Brooke dated in their 20s, she's said Michael was just a friend she bonded with over their shared history as child stars.

LIAM NEESON

"He asked me to marry him without a ring," Brooke's said of Liam, 70, who wooed her with his North Ireland accent, poetry and wine. They split in 1992.

ANDRE AGASSI

After bonding with the tennis star, 52, in 1993 over the "strange burden of fame and overpowering parents," they wed in 1997, only to divorce two years later.

HIS NO. 1 FAN!

JERSEY GIRL
Social media took notice after Veronika posted Instagram photos of herself wearing a Brady jersey at a Bucs game in December.

IS THIS TOM'S NEW GIRLFRIEND?

Nearly three months after his divorce from Gisele Bündchen, Tom Brady is linked to another gorgeous model

She couldn't stop gushing. Veronika Rajek — a stunning Slovakian model and Instagram influencer — cheered on the Tampa Bay Buccaneers as they took on the New Orleans Saints on Dec. 5, then went viral after she dedicated a post to Bucs quarterback Tom Brady. "I saw the LEGEND, and if somebody asks me again if I love Brady, yes I love him, and show me somebody who doesn't," she wrote alongside a photo of herself in a Brady football jersey.

Now there's talk that the blond beauty is more than just a superfan. Figures in the sports world, including CBS Sports Radio show host Zach Gelb, have wondered "if Tom Brady is really dating Veronika Rajek" more than two months after the GOAT finalized his divorce from supermodel Gisele Bündchen, 42. "Now that the season is over, Tom is ready to start dating again, and apparently he already has someone at the top of his dance card — Veronika," a source tells In Touch. "Some of his friends say it's just a social media infatuation, but others say Tom has already been in contact with Veronika. The buzz is that someone in his camp set the wheels in motion, and she and Tom are into each other and want to take it further."

Veronika, 26, clearly can't get enough of the Bucs — or Tom. Some reports suggest she's married to Slovak Olympic bobsledder Viktor Rajek, 37, but on Jan. 1, she stoked Tom romance rumors when she shared an Instagram post of the QB, 45, and his team branding him "so beautiful."

And on Jan. 16, Veronika posted a photo of herself in red lingerie holding a teddy bear wearing a Tampa Bay sweater. "Veronika knows what she likes, and she goes after it," says the source.

THE MYSTERY DEEPENS

Whatever is or isn't happening, it appears not to be serious. Tom's kids — Jack, 15, with former girlfriend Bridget Moynahan, 51, and Benjamin, 13, and Vivian, 10, with Gisele — "haven't met Veronika," says the source, "but Gisele definitely knows who she is. Everyone knows who she is now!"

A rep for Veronika was cryptic when In Touch asked about the model's alleged blossoming romance with the NFL hunk. "Privacy is something that Veronika values highly, and all of them have families that need to be protected, especially young children," her rep said, adding that Veronika has no comment except that she "hopes Tom will pursue his eighth [Super Bowl] ring and [that] he makes decisions that are the best for him and his future." (The rep had no response when asked to confirm whether Veronika is single or married. Meanwhile, Tom's rep insists the athlete has never met Veronika.)

No matter, says the source. "Where there's smoke, there's usually fire in the sports and celebrity world. So nothing would be a surprise at this point." ■

Gisele Finds Her Joy

Weeks before Gisele and Tom confirmed their split, she addressed her unhappiness with his decision to continue to play a "very violent sport" like football, though admitted, "he needs to follow his joy, too." She's certainly following hers: On Jan. 18, she was photographed riding horses in Costa Rica with her jiujitsu instructor, Joaquim Valente (inset). While it's unclear if the longtime friends have grown into more, "Gisele is definitely open to dating again, too," says a source, "but she's not looking for anything serious. Her focus is her kids, having fun, and enjoying her new single life."

GMA Affair IT'S WOR ANYONE

Amy Robach and T.J. Holmes' secret romance is the least of ABC's problems, according to bombshell new allegations

They're out! Two months after disclosing their romantic relationship to their ABC bosses, Good Morning America co-hosts Amy Robach and T.J. Holmes were reportedly released from their contracts on Jan. 26, following a network investigation and a tense mediation session. "ABC execs had to protect the brand — GMA is considered news and entertainment, but it's a family show," says a source. "They had a responsibility to make sure there wasn't any inappropriate behavior with the parties involved, their staff and crew. And they decided they had no choice but to cut ties with them both."

Especially because the scandal kept growing. T.J. has now been accused of having flings with at least three other GMA staffers, including a 24-year-old subordinate. "Amy was good friends with one of the women named," says the source, adding that more staffers spilled stories about T.J. being "rude" and "terrorizing" underlings, "which came as a surprise to his co-anchors. Word around the newsroom is that his behavior was worse than anyone knows."

The investigation uncovered a lot of secrets. "Amy and T.J.'s biggest mistake was being naive about their little office romance, thinking it couldn't blow up like it has," says the source. While it first seemed

ROSIE VS. ELISABETH

Rosie O'Donnell left The View after an explosive confrontation with Elisabeth Hasselbeck over the Iraq War in 2007. Former executive producer Bill Geddie called it "a horrible day."

ANN OUSTED

Sabotaged? Ann Curry made a tearful Today exit in 2012. "They say where there's smoke, there's fire...[but] I don't know," she said of whether Matt Lauer was to blame, but revealed she'd warned execs "they needed to keep an eye on him."

ABUSE OF POWER

Scandal
SE THAN KNOWS

WORKPLACE ROMANCE

"T.J. and Amy handled their affair poorly, leaving ABC with no choice but to investigate," says a source. "Now things have fallen apart."

as if their respective marriages (to Andrew Shue and Marilee Fiebig) were over, "that really wasn't true. It was actually pretty messy," notes the source. "And their affair opened up a whole can of worms."

It goes beyond marital infidelity. "The revelations about T.J.'s alleged past affairs are something Amy can't be taking lightly," says the source. Amy, 49, and T.J., 45, "were work equals, but some of these other women may have reported to him. If it turns out T.J. abused his position of power, that's a huge problem. It's not that different from what happened with Matt Lauer." (See sidebar.)

LASTING DAMAGE

So far, Amy is standing by her man. "As far as I know, she was aware that T.J. was unhappy in his marriage, but not the extent of his supposed infidelities," says the source. "If she did know, that might have been a red flag to steer clear of him. But for now, they're still together and it's pretty serious."

But their popular on-screen pairing is over. "The network was happy with them before all of this, but ABC had to do the right thing after T.J.'s other dalliances were exposed. Amy's job might have been salvaged, but unfortunately she's tied to the whole business and had to go as well," says the source, noting that she had been with ABC for nearly 11 years and T.J. joined in 2014. "It's a big loss for the show." And for them. "Amy and T.J. may both end up with big regrets about their choices," adds the source. "This scandal has already done huge damage to their careers — and it's not even over yet." ■

MATT'S FALL FROM GRACE

"There is enough truth in these stories to make me feel embarrassed and ashamed," Matt said after being fired from Today in 2017 following multiple claims of sexual misconduct with junior staffers.

BILLY'S HOT MIC MOMENT

Today* axed Billy Bush in 2016 after an old clip of him laughing at Donald Trump's lewd comments was leaked. (In 2023, the Extra host was caught on a hot mic being crude about Kendall Jenner.)

MEGYN CANCELED

Three days after Megyn Kelly, who anchored the third hour of Today in 2018, defended wearing blackface for a Halloween costume — and one day after she apologized, saying "I've never been a 'PC' kind of person" — her show was canceled.

POLITICALLY INCORRECT

Forget the royal family! Prince Harry's tell-all is stirring up trouble at home with Meghan Markle

He claims to have cut 400 pages. "It could have been two books," Prince Harry said of his bombshell memoir, Spare, in a Jan. 13 interview, adding that he held back the most explosive stories. "There are some things that have happened, especially between me and my brother and to some extent between me and my father, that I just don't want the world to know, because I don't think they would ever forgive me."

It's hard to imagine them forgiving him as it is. Even Harry's wife, Meghan Markle, "was shocked by some of the secrets he shared," a source says of the bridge-burning tell-all, which sold 1.4 million copies in the U.S., U.K. and Canada on the first day and is the fastest-selling book of all time. "She's always supportive of him, but behind closed doors, the backlash from the book has caused some tension. Meghan's worst fear is that Harry's loose lips could blow up everything they've worked so hard to achieve in California and tarnish their brand."

Ironically, the memoir was her idea in the first place. "She encouraged him to write about his journey because she thought it would help him process his emotions from losing his mother and all that he went through at the hands of the monarchy," says the source. "She also wanted him to tell their love story, of course."

He delivered all that — and much, much more. Harry, 38, "got carried away," says the source, noting that sly references to their sex life and a frank

PAYING THE PRICE?

"Meghan gently warned Harry that maybe he was taking certain angles of his book too far," says a source. "But he knows it broke records because it's so juicy!"

BANNED FROM CHARLES' CORONATION?

It's the hottest invite of the year! On Jan. 21, Buckingham Palace unveiled plans for King Charles' coronation, which will take place at Westminster Abbey on May 6, followed by a star-studded concert. "Diana Ross, Coldplay, Dua Lipa, Sting and Barbra Streisand are on his wish list," says the source, adding that "kings and queens from around the world and celebrities like Tom Cruise and the Beckhams are expected to attend." Who won't be there? "The palace feels Harry and Meghan should be banned," says the source. "Charles doesn't want Harry and Meghan ruining his moment, either, but it'll be a bad look if he doesn't invite his own flesh and blood."

description of his frostbitten penis "were mortifying to her, especially because he keeps getting asked about them in interviews about the book."

As for Harry's evisceration of his family — particularly his brother, William — Meghan, 41, "questioned if Harry crossed the line," says the source. "She also doesn't really have any issues with Charles, and yet Harry was pretty cruel toward him."

CAUGHT IN THE CROSSFIRE

More important, after years of being vilified in the press, the media-savvy former actress "knows how the system works," says the source. "She gets blamed every time Harry goes against the royals, no matter how often he insists he makes his own decisions. It's no different with the book." Meghan, who was pointedly absent from the promotional press Harry did, "is actually planning on writing her story in her own words," says an insider, "to set the record straight."

That was Harry's goal with Spare. "But, instead, it stirred up so much drama," says the source. And while Meghan avoided telling her husband, "I told you so," says the source, "they also had a discussion in which he reluctantly agreed not to drop any more major truth bombs. But who knows if that will last? Despite the potential for collateral damage, he's itching to spill more secrets." ■

BIG THREE
"There's no deal out there that's going to make or break our team," Josh says of the now-streamlined MDLLA cast, including Josh Flagg and Tracy Tutor.

InTouch with... JOSH ALTMAN

I'M THE NO. 1 AGENT ON THE PLANET

Humility isn't a big selling point for the Million Dollar Listing Los Angeles power player

Longtime Million Dollar Listing Los Angeles star Josh Altman doesn't feel the least bit threatened by the new crop of real estate reality shows to hit the market in recent years, including Netflix's Selling Sunset and Buying Beverly Hills, which features fellow Bravo star, The Real Housewives of Beverly Hills' Mauricio Umansky. "We paved the road for them," says the 43-year-old realtor. "When you see that the guy on TV is the number-one agent on the planet, everyone's going to follow. As they say: Imitation is the highest form of flattery." Here, the dad of two (he and his wife of six years, Heather, share Lexi, 5, and Ace, 3) talks to In Touch's Fortune Benatar about the business, dropping the "dead weight" like Million Dollar Listing New York star Fredrik Eklund, and plans for baby No. 3.

Sounds like business is booming.

JA: We're the number-one team this side of the Mississippi. We sold almost $1.5 billion last year. That's $4 million every single day. And we're opening new offices .

SUCCESS STORY
"A lot of the agents that join the business get a rude awakening. It's not as easy as it looks on TV," says Josh.

Tell us about the current season, following the departure of Fredrik Eklund, James Harris and David Parnes.

JA: They brought the main core together: me, Josh Flagg and Tracy Tutor. At the end of the day, the audience wants to see the three of us. We lost the dead weight of some character in New York who came out to LA and got shipped back to New York because he couldn't do anything.

How have the cast dynamics changed?

JA: It's not the show it used to be where we'd all try to screw each other over. There will always be drama, but it's more about our friendships and how we're navigating the current market.

What's it like working with your wife?

JA: From day one we've been a good tag team because of our different approaches. She's the CEO of the Altman Brothers, and a lot of times my brother and I will butt heads, and Heather is the down-to-earth thinker of the group. Everybody is part of the success of the machine, including our children.

ON A LIGHTER NOTE...

Josh answers some burning questions!

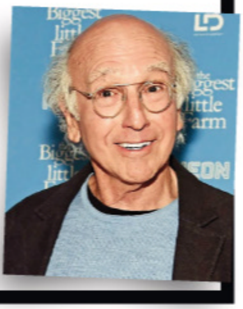
WHAT EMOJI DO YOU USE MOST OFTEN?

Definitely the bicep emoji all day long. Everybody makes fun of me for it.

WHAT IS YOUR FAVORITE MOVIE?

Top Gun: Maverick. I'm always down to see a classic being remade like that. I'm a big Tom Cruise fan. I actually got to fly with the Air Force Thunderbirds in one of the F-16 jets back in the day. I went 7.9 Gs, so to watch these movies I was able to understand what it does to your body when you're in there and feel what it's like. I watched that movie three times.

WHO HAS MADE YOU THE MOST STARSTRUCK?



I met Larry David, and he was the best. I love Curb Your Enthusiasm. He's my favorite. So I was starstruck with him, and I don't get starstruck with anybody.

With your busy schedules, how do you keep the spark alive at home?

JA: That's not a problem. There's a lot of high intensity and a lot of high-intensity lovemaking. We make it work. What attracts us to one another is constantly challenging each other and keeping each other on top — and that relates to the bedroom, too.

NO. 1 PRIORITY
"They are more important than anything," Josh says of his kids, Lexi and Ace, with wife Heather.

How are your kids?

JA: Lexi is definitely a mirror image of her mom. She is smart and sassy. Ace is the opposite of me — he's very gentle and thoughtful.

Do you see yourself having more?

JA: We're talking about it. We just have to figure out how much time we have in the day. Bringing up kids and running a business isn't the easiest thing. Heather's a rock-star mom and a rock-star CEO.

What's the biggest lesson you've learned over the years?

JA: Don't burn bridges. Relationships are the most important thing in real estate. And if you want something, you've got to hustle. No one is going to hand it to you. ■

"I have always been on the lookout for a good way to keep my hair nourished and healthy. I longed for more volume and less shedding. At the hairdresser they proposed hair care products which helped a bit, but after visiting my health food store, I learned the value of hair supplements.

THE TRICK THAT WORKED

I never thought of nourishing my hair from within, but the lady at the store recommended Hair Volume™, a Swedish supplement with apple extract, which she told me her customers raved about. She told me to use it at least 3 months, so I bought a box and got started.

The first month I noticed my nails seemed stronger. Then my hair stopped shedding as much and looked fuller and better. That made me feel so happy. Now I am a great fan of Hair Volume™ and recommend it to everyone who wants beautiful and full hair."

DETOX YOUR BODY DAILY-

ALL YEAR LONG

If you are feeling exhausted and in need of revitalization, you should consider a detox or cleanse. With Active Liver™ you have the tool to do this gently and on a daily basis.

Each day, our liver is working hard to remove waste products and toxins from processed foods, unclean air, water and even our own body. But as we get exposed to increasingly more toxins, the liver struggles to remove them all and can start storing them in our body fat. We may notice the results in our energy levels, appearance – and surprisingly, on our waistlines.

UNJUNKING YOUR BODY

A detox, like a water or juice fast, is an excellent way to rid the body of stored toxins, but it is often difficult to abide by, and involves days or even weeks of feeling tired and sick. However, there are other ways.

DETOX WITH ONE TABLET A DAY

Active Liver™ is a dietary supplement that helps promote a healthy liver and helps you detox on a daily basis – all year round. With just one tablet a day, it gently but effectively uses known herbal extracts to facilitate detoxing of the body without the "side effects".
